MESSAGE FROM THE DIRECTORS

This year at the Centre featured many new initiatives that promote education and research on violence against women and children. Our web-site www.learningtoendabuse.ca reflects our dynamic growth and development in disseminating knowledge to professional groups and the general public. We have reached thousands of professionals with our workshops, webinars and on-line learning experiences. Our “Make it Our Business” and “Neighbours, Friends and Families” campaigns have reached many workplaces and communities across Ontario. Our Learning Network has provided in-depth and quality newsletters to keep the field up to date on emerging issues. Our training and research partnerships have fostered cutting edge work in addressing domestic violence in the workplace and preventing domestic homicides. Inside this report we have highlighted our extensive work during 2013-2014. None of our accomplishments would be possible without the support of our partners, management committee, advisory committee, research associates, funders, and our extended family in the Faculty of Education.
LOOKING BACK

We are pleased to take this opportunity to reflect on twenty years of milestones and accomplishments. The Centre was originally established through a Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council (SSHRC) grant awarded to Dr. Roma Harris in 1992 as Principal Investigator. Dr. Lorraine Greaves was the first Centre Director.

Over the past twenty years the Centre has experienced growth and leadership under the direction of four Directors and one Acting Director; has found a home in four different locations and added the words “& Education” to its title in 2006 to reflect the expanded role of the centre in outreach and public education as well as providing a stronger link to the Faculty of Education where it now finds its home.

HIGHLIGHTS

1992
The Centre for Research on Violence against Women and Children (CREVAWC) is founded as a collaborative venture between The University of Western Ontario, Fanshawe College and the London Coordinating Committee to End Women Abuse. Funded through SSHRC, the Centre is located at the Research Park, UWO. Members of the original research team were Constance Backhouse, Judith Belle Brown, Lorraine Greaves, Shelina Nellani, Roma Harris, Gail Hutchinson, Peter Jaffe, Alison MacDonald, Jan Richardson and David Wolfe.

1993
Lorraine Greaves was appointed Director. Nora Shanahan was appointed Administrative Assistant.

1994
Major grant received from Ontario Ministry of Education & Training; more than $300,000 over five years resulting in the publications ”Educating for Change: Recommended materials on Violence against Women & Children” and “Principles of Effective Anti-Violence Education: A Review of Prevention Literature.”

1995
First newsletter is issued. The report “Selected estimates of the costs of violence against women” is released.

1997
The Alliance of Five Research Centres on Violence is formed. The Centre merges with the Centre for Women’s Studies and Feminist Research in October and moved to University College. Katherine McKenna becomes Director of both centres.

1999
Major funding for five years is received from Status of Women Canada for “The Development of a National Strategy on Violence Prevention and the Girl Child.” Scotiabank generously contributes major funding to the Centre for a Scotiabank Professor. Small Grants Program, Research Internships and Student Scholarships. Dr. Melanie Randall is named Scotiabank Professor for a five year term.

2000
The Centre is temporarily located at a downtown location on Pall Mall St. Alison Cunningham is appointed Acting Director.

2002
The Centre moves to Althouse College, collaborating and working with the Faculty of Education with Bars MacQuarrie as Community Development Coordinator and David Wolfe as Academic Director. In the Best Interests of the Child, Phase II Report is released. Joy Lang joins the Centre.

2003
Nora Shanahan retires after ten years of dedicated service and Maria Callaghan joins the Centre as Centre Coordinator.

2004
“respect-at-work,” a workplace training program utilizing a gender analysis and intersectionality, inspired and directed by Barbara MacQuarrie is developed. Funding is received for a national study “Intersecting sites of violence in the lives of girls” from Status of Women Canada.

2005
Dr. Peter Jaffe is appointed Academic Director and Dr. Helene Berman is named the Scotiabank Research Chair.

2006
The Neighbours Friends and Families campaign is launched with funding from the Ontario Women’s Directorate. The Centre is renamed Centre for Research & Education on Violence against Women & Children to acknowledge the significant educational role of the centre and its connection to the Faculty of Education. Barb MacQuarrie is appointed Community Director.

2007
In partnership with the Centre for Children & Families in the Justice System and CAMH Centre for Prevention Science, CREVAWC hosts the 3rd International Conference: Children Exposed to Domestic Violence, London Convention Centre. The first Coaching Boys into Men Annual Father’s Day Breakfast is held.

2009
The Centre is now governed by a Management Committee that reports to the Dean of Education. Three major conferences are hosted by the Centre: Safe, Respectful and Inclusive Workplaces: Stakeholders and Strategies Conference; Canadian Conference on the Prevention of Domestic Homicides; and Rethinking Relationships, an interactive conference for youth and adult leaders.

2010
Make it our Business: A workplace domestic violence training and education program is launched with funding from the Ontario Women’s Directorate. This program addresses changes to the Occupational Health & Safety Act which was introduced June 15, 2010. Two think tanks on child sexual abuse and prevention of domestic homicides are held as well as two provincial conferences on reducing the risk of lethal violence through collaborative threat assessment and risk management.

2011
Funding received from Ontario Women’s Directorate to develop the Violence against Women Learning Network. Dr. Linda Baker is seconded from the Centre for Children & Families in the Justice System and incorporates social media into its website www.learningtoendabuse.ca and launches a new program to promote the It’s not right! Neighbours, Friends and Families for Older Adults campaign.

2012
Major conferences include Domestic Violence & the Workplace: Risk Assessment & Risk Management Strategies, funded by SSHRC; Domestic Violence Risk Assessment & Management Knowledge Exchange funded by Department of Justice Canada. CREVAWC launches a new website www.learningtoendabuse.ca and incorporates social media into its marketing, education, and outreach strategies. Funding is received from New Horizons Program of Human Resources Skill Development Canada to promote the It’s not right! Neighbours, Friends and Families for Older Adults campaign.

2013
The Learning Network hosts two knowledge exchanges: Human Trafficking; and Keeping children and mothers safe and engaging men who use abusive behaviours. CREVAWC hosted two conferences: Children exposed to domestic violence conference; and Social media and Sexual violence: Blurred Lines. Barb MacQuarrie was awarded SSHRC funding to conduct research on domestic violence among workers and in workplaces.

NEighbours, Friends and Families

The simple, but powerful message that we all have a role to play in ending woman abuse is at the heart of this campaign. Because repeated violence and potentially lethal violence can often be predicted, lives can be saved with appropriate and timely interventions. Through the efforts of Neighbours, Friends and Families we make information on how to recognize abuse, how to offer support and where to turn for help accessible and usable to all communities across the province. The campaign teaches about small steps we can all take to help keep a neighbour, a friend, a family member safe. The website has been updated and features a free webinar. To order free brochures or to find more information about the campaign, visit www.neighboursfriendsandfamilies.ca.

MAKE IT OUR BUSINESS

Violence against women is a complex, multifaceted, global social issue that must be addressed through an ecological approach that spans individual, organizational, community and societal levels. Domestic violence in Canadian workplaces costs millions of dollars each year, presenting an opportunity for collaboration and education. The Make It Our Business (MIOB) program takes the original mandate of the Neighbours, Friends and Families (NFF) public education campaign to teach all Ontarians to recognize warning signs and risk factors of domestic violence into workplaces. MIOB connects local experts with employers to optimize existing resources by building relationships between the public, private and not-for-profit sectors. MIOB uses a “whole company” change model focusing on pro-social bystander approaches to address social norms that enable or inhibit violence against women and to grow the in-house capacity of partnering organizations to continue the education process after MIOB training. MIOB generates awareness, engages leadership and provides co-workers with the ability to recognize potential warning signs and abuse along with practical tools to respond. This initiative is supported with funding from the Ontario Women’s Directorate. For more information, or to book a session, go to www.makeitourbusiness.com.

CANADIAN DOMESTIC HOMICIDE PREVENTION INITIATIVE

In partnership with the Centre for the Study of Social and Legal Responses to Violence, University of Guelph, the Centre for Research & Education on Violence against Women & Children is pleased to launch the Canadian Domestic Homicide Prevention website on February 28, 2014 with funding from the Canadian Women’s Foundation. This website is designed for researchers, community organizations and government policy makers and features research reports, education materials, learning and training opportunities, annual reports from domestic violence death review committees from across Canada and internationally. To learn more visit www.cdhpi.ca.

TRUTH AND RECONCILIATION WORK

The Centre for Research & Education on Violence against Women & Children continues to work with The Sisters of St. Joseph and local Indigenous representatives to support the work of the Truth and Reconciliation Commission locally. Currently, our work will focus on how we can contribute to better preparation for teachers in training, ongoing professional development opportunities for teachers and strengthening relationships between Indigenous and settler people throughout our local communities so that we can all live in peace and understanding. Local elders Dan and Mary Lou Smoke have joined our committee and assist us with traditional protocols.

CUT IT OUT

87% of women battered by their partners confide in their hairdresser before they seek help from a professional. Cut It Out teaches basic warning signs of woman abuse and helps the stylists and salon professionals become comfortable having a discussion with their clients. It also familiarizes them with community programs that can help the woman. Salon employees are in a perfect position to help because they work in an environment where women feel comfortable and they develop trusted relationships. Cut It Out education sessions provide spa and salon workers with information and resources to reach out to their clients and connect them to supportive resources in the community. The Cut It Out program has focused on reaching students in colleges and private schools who are about to embark on their professional careers. Cut It Out was represented at Allied Beauty Association trade show in Toronto in March 2014 with 7,500 attendees. For more information go to www.cutitoutcanada.ca.

IT’S NOT RIGHT CAMPAIGN: CHANGING SOCIAL NORMS FOR BYSTANDERS OF ABUSE OF OLDER ADULTS

It’s Not Right! Neighbours, Friends and Families for Older Adults has been developed to educate and engage all Canadians on the issue of older adult abuse and neglect. We want to teach everyone to recognize warning signs and risk factors and to learn small practical steps that can add up to a big difference in someone’s life and in our communities. There are little things that everyone can do to help. Together we can create the society where we feel respected, valued, safe and supported throughout our lives. This project is supported with funding from the New Horizons Program of Human Resources Skill Development Canada. www.itsnotright.ca

Keeping Children and Mothers Safe and Engaging Men who use Abusive Behaviours: VAW and CAS Collaboration
SEPTEMBER 19, 2013
A Knowledge Exchange for VAW and CAS workers was hosted by the Learning Network at the Hilton Hotel, London, ON. This forum brought together 144 professionals from nine regions across the province who represented the VAW, CAS and government sectors. The overall objectives of the forum were to understand VAW and CAS collaboration within a gender-based analysis, identify principles and practice strategies for engaging men who use abusive behaviours, identify risk factors and potential assessment tools for evaluating child risk in the context of domestic violence, and identifying promising practices in VAW and CAS collaboration. A report regarding the forum is available at www.vawlearningnetwork.ca/keeping-children-mothers-safe-and-engaging-men-who-use-abusive-behaviours-vaw-and-cas-perspectives

COMMUNITY AWARDS AND GRANTS

SCOTIABANK STUDENT RESEARCH ASSISTANT AWARDS FOR STUDIES IN VIOLENCE AGAINST WOMEN AND CHILDREN
Two student Research Assistant Awards of $3,250 may be awarded annually. Students eligible for these awards must be enrolled full-time at Western University in an undergraduate program.
2013-2014 Student Recipients: Sarah Kennedy, 3rd year student in Management & Organizational Studies; and Karolina Czechowska, Bachelor of Education student, Faculty of Education.

ELISABETH STEEL REURINK AWARD
The Elisabeth Steel Reurink Award is presented to a student connected with the Centre for Research & Education on Violence Against Women & Children who is interested in violence against women issues and plays an active role in her community. Elisabeth died in a skiing accident in March 2009. Elisabeth, daughter of Linda Steel and Brian Reurink, wrote that “Society and the world are always in need of change or fixing because as soon as we fix one problem another one arises. With every problem people have the ability and the capacity to be compassionate and reach out to help their neighbour, even if their neighbour is half-way around the world.”

2012-2013 Recipient: Carolyn Carrier
Carolyn Carrier completed her Master of Education in Counselling Psychology through Western University. While attending Western University she worked with the Centre for Research & Education on Violence Against Women & Children in the areas of risk profiles for her master thesis and on domestic violence within the workplace. Carolyn is a certified Canadian Counsellor and EMDR therapist working part time at the London Health Science Center and in a part time private practice in London, Ontario.
