

Addressing Domestic Violence in the Workplace Through Collaboration

Regional Dialogue Series

In collaboration, the Centre for Research & Education on Violence Against Women & Children \(CREVAWC\), Canadian Labour Congress \(CLC\) and Federally Regulated Employers – Transportation and Communications \(FETCO\) have developed tools, policies, and online training programs to assist federally regulated organizations to provide supports in the workplace for workers who are impacted by domestic violence.

The Regional Dialogue Series will create space for labour, federally regulated employers, and domestic violence experts to discuss and learn about innovative approaches to addressing domestic violence in the workplace.

It is an opportunity to share information about working collaboratively across sectors, geographies and types of organizations to support those affected and to mitigate impacts on workplaces.

Who Should Attend?

- Management representatives from federally regulated workplaces
- Union leaders and representatives from federally regulated workplaces
- Community-based domestic violence experts
- Domestic violence risk assessment experts
